

Urgent Care Association of America

Amabel Cabatu M.D.

Dr. Cabatu is an Attending Physician with Florida Emergency Physicians, based in Orlando, Florida. Florida Emergency Physicians is the largest independent Emergency Medicine group in Florida, providing care to approximately 300,000+ patients annually at eight Adventist Health Systems hospitals in the Greater Orlando area.

Dr. Cabatu attended medical school at the University of Texas Medical Branch in Galveston, TX. She completed an internship year in Internal Medicine at Christiana Care Hospital in Wilmington, DE before completing her residency in Emergency Medicine at Lincoln Medical and Mental Health Center in the South Bronx, NY. She is board certified in Emergency Medicine and was recently recognized as one of America's Top Emergency Physicians by the Consumer Research Council of America.

Beginning in 2008, Dr. Cabatu joined the new Florida Hospital Emergency Medicine Residency as Clinical Faculty. She holds regular lectures on various topics in emergency medicine and contributes to a weekly review series on Rosen's Emergency Medicine text. In addition, she serves as a mentor to several emergency medicine residents. Dr. Cabatu also holds a position as volunteer faculty with the University of Central Florida Medical School.

Dr. Cabatu's interests currently focus on aggressive treatment in patients with Severe Septic Shock. Towards this end, she serves as Chair of the Sepsis Committee of the Florida Hospital System. Other interests include forwarding the practice of emergency medicine thru involvement with the Florida College of Emergency Physicians and participating in medical missions around the world. Most recently Dr. Cabatu spent time assisting those in need in the countries of Ghana and St. Lucia.

Contact Information:

Amabel-Jovan.Cabatu.MD@flhosp.org